

Are you 60 or Older?

Join the DETECT pAD Research Study

---

We are actively recruiting older adults to study new methods to distinguish between normal aging and early signs of memory loss.

This is an important study that will help us identify better ways to detect and treat early cognitive impairment.

Everyone 60+ with normal memory, those with mild memory complaints or other cognitive concerns are invited as long as they have not been diagnosed with dementia.

English and Spanish speakers are welcome!

Participants will be compensated for their time!
